VIOLET AND MAIZE

1 * 9 * 3 * 6

Dear Phyl:

It's been swell knowing you & having you for a pal here at C. C. C. N. S.. You've been a pal and I want to thank you for having me stay at your house. I've enjoyed it very much even though we did cry ourselves to sleep that one night. I do hope we shall be friends "till death do us part"

Your loving friend

Jerry

Dear Phyllis

You are one of the friends whom I have enjoyed having this year. Wishing you the best of luck and happiness

Tommy

Dear Phyllis:

Here's wishing you much success in the future.

Sincerely

Charlotte

Dear Phyllis

It's always enjoyable when friendship & ideals are shared. I have met with both in you. Best wishes

FOREWORD

● A call—an inspiration—a victory!

He alone has achieved success who has daily fellowship with God and a love for mankind—who has gained the respect of pure and intelligent men and women and the love of little children—who has filled his niche and accomplished his task—who has developed his talents in the world—who has looked for the best in others and has given the best he had—whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction. But the edifice of success is like a sky scraper—one must climb to reach the top, one must persevere and use each vice as a stepping stone to higher advancement. This being the inspiration of the graduates of 1936, our sole outlook on life as its portals open this day, we have endeavored to clarify in the following pages the criterion for a successful career. Not that these depicted are all inclusive, but they serve as scaffle lumber.

And if we have rendered to your mind such an inspiration with these ideals, our attempt to make this annual distinctive in character has not been in vain.

ONWARD TO SUCCESS!

DEDICATION

GEORGE OTTENHOFF

In recognition of the untiring leadership of Mr. George Ottenhoff as president of the Chicago Christian High School Board, we the senior class decree this dedication. For more than ten years he has been the heart and soul of the board. The school board under his leadership has been an influence for good unexcelled. It has safely guarded the interests and needs of our institution during seven strenuous years of financial upheaval. The work of our school board under Mr. George Ottenhoff has become vital and far-reaching. It is imperative that we convey to him and his fellow members of the board this our sincere admiration, and we pledge to the school's future needs our youthful support.

Dear Phil:
Best wishes
to a swell kid.
Hoping to see you next fall again. Love Ruth.

Personally and on behalf of our board, teachers, and students, I congratulate you upon your graduation this June, 1936. We were privileged to have your joyous companionship, your devoted cooperation and enthusiastic leadership in school activities. We shall always cherish the memory of your presence with us. You in turn have been inestimably enriched in mind and spirit by your associations with us. Graduation from our school means that you have been receiving for some years the benefits of a fine type of instruction, that you have been surrounded by wholesome influences. Consequently, with such a rich heritage entrusted to you we expect much from you in the coming years. Be faithful to the teachings and traditions of your alma mater. Our prayers, our best wishes, our high expectations accompany you.

FACULTY PLUS STUDENTS COMPLETES C. C. H. S. UNIT

Our dear old Christian High!—ah, a venerable school it is! And how many and great her virtues! If they only could be laid side by side to show the outside world what a long link it really constitutes! But, alas, they are intangible, they cannot be laid hold of—the atmosphere is their protector. The air of Christian High is filled with a sweet breeze, a breeze refreshing to both skin and heart. For there in those four walls we find a unity, a feeling of oneness only experienced by the occupants. There in Christian High we experience a particularly unique relationship between those our honorable teachers and the student body. Students are more than units on the assembly line to be shoved on as human beings with a need of guidance and education with the greatest speed possible. Students there constitute the teacher's whole interest, and their advancement is their concern. Each student has a soul, a soul akin to that of the faculty. Both student and teacher seeks fellowship with the same God. And out of the mutual realization of this revelation, the existing understanding develops. The students' problems are better comprehended, the students' actions more easily understood. And even though at times our partnership is imperfect, the principle of unity remains and stands fast. And as Rome with respect to her Coliseum so Christian High in respect to its virtue of oneness, stands—

When comradeship breaks, unity will fall.
When unity falls, Christian High will fall.

A solemn thought—and a beautiful thought—Faculty plus students completes the C. C. H. S. unit!

The relationship of students toward teachers is equally distinctive. Teachers are no more automatic machines for installing Latin or algebra. They are not drill masters intent on having the students stereotyped. They are human beings, the students' friends, and sometimes personal friends. And this understanding of our place in school life is part of our training for a successful career. And still how often students fail to visualize this! In this, too, the student body has its imperfections, and yet, the principle and knowledge is there. Faculty plus students completes the C. C. H. S. unit!

Never pity students or teachers. We live together from day to day enjoying each other's presence, and even though the best of students jumps high when one of the faculty is absent, each night we loath to bid adieu. We are not slaves nor masters. We are friends and acquaintances, principally one Dutch family gathered together to share knowledge and further God's kingdom. And be it thus—forever—

SENIOR LIFE

Immense has been the preparation for us;
Faithful and friendly the arms that have helped us.

Senior life? Yes, that's my topic, but before I describe this phase of our school career, I must take you back to the days when we were freshmen.

When we senior students were enrolled in the Chicago Christian High School in September, 1932, little did we know of the fine qualities that would shine forth from our fellow classmates. Since our first entrance to these portals to the present time, we have constantly been in close contact with each other and have come to know and appreciate the qualities and personalities of every scholar.

During the four years we have also found out the true character and ability of the teaching staff and principal. Their patience and faithfulness have been shown at all times and we, as seniors, appreciate the interest they have manifested toward us.

We have learned to take part in the social life of the school as well as to engage in academic studies. A thorough, well-balanced course was set before us, and we realize that the lessons which have seemed difficult, will follow us through life.

Our first three years have been one great preparation for senior duties. I know the seniors feel responsible for the various positions given them and also appreciate the fact that the teachers trust that they will fulfill these duties.

There are several important undertakings which are left to the seniors. They publish the school paper and the annual. This year the seniors have been quite active. They organized the student council and also performed excellently in the senior play, "The Man From Nowhere." Among the social events of the year was the junior and senior banquet, which proved to be a huge success. In the past year "leadership" and "cooperation" were constantly stressed.

We can say in all sincerity that we are loathe to bid adieu to the faculty: for you, teachers, have moulded our minds and character and prepared us to go onward. When we go forth from these walls which we love, may we ever remember you and your part in making us successful!

Some of us will seek a higher education, some will engage in business, and others will stay home, but I know that wherever we go, we will be proud to say that we are alumnae of the Chicago Christian High School. And now adieu teachers, principal, and fellow students!

AIR CASTLES

"I built a castle in the air,
It fell to earth; I knew not where."

A castle—at the mere mention of the word, a vision rises before us of the beautiful old castle of long ago, with its graceful flanking towers, fanciful staircases and fair princesses. A romantic thought, indeed!

Well then, you say, what is an air castle? They are the fondest dreams, tenderest aspirations, and amorous hopes of the human heart, woven together in the great vague hope that some day they may become a part of our reality.

We all have our day dreams. Youth in all its glory must build its castles. They belong to them. They are a part of them. Do not we all dream of, maybe, some day falling into possession of some rich inheritance or perhaps finding our name written in the hall of fame. And, who does not, within his innermost self, hope some day of meeting that handsome lover, brave and bold. What a great source of joy and happiness flows from the joyful anticipation of these vagaries; and yet, how sad and bitter the disappointment—sometimes—when we see them vanish from our vision. How often are our dreams not vain and selfish; and when they fail, we turn with sinking of heart—from these prostrated masses—and wonder why. Dreams based on things unsubstantial, castles built on the pleasures of the world, hopes founded on abstract foundations cannot endure. Our foolish young hearts grow frigid within us, and we turn in pain and remorse—when they come crashing in torrential downpour at our feet.

Let us build our castles on truly noble purposes establishing them on possibilities, not improbabilities. Let us build them really beautiful with Christ as our foundation and not the world or our own vain imaginary visions. When we build our castles upon the rock, they will be concrete and the storms of life will not sway them.

And now, at this, the dawning of our lives, let us strive earnestly and prayerfully to build this castle. Then, and only then, will our dreams become realities and our castles stand firm forever.

"I built a castle in the air,
It stood firm; God was there."

JUNIORS

Here we are—now juniors, prospective seniors. Some of us are tall, some short, some fat, some thin, but juniors all. Our three years of C.C.H.S. have already disclosed our temperament. And who wouldn't have one with all the ignorance of those below us, the conceitedness of the seniors (whom by the way, we're sorry to see leave), the hastiness of the teachers, and a host of other school evils! Now we are ready for a leap—but how are we going to land? Surely not with the gravity of a heavy heart. No, we're going to make the jump bravely with all the enthusiasm and sportsmanship necessary to fill the place of those whose names are being called and who solemnly march across the platform once and forever!

A leap—the time is here — and shortly, the hour strikes! We made the leap safely!

SOPHOMORES

We are sophomores

We are prospective juniors today because our foot is raised to the level of the next step in the C.C.H.S. ladder. It took us two years to make the first two steps, two years to get acquainted and learn to make use of one another's abilities. "Teamwork" is our biggest achievement. We work together, talk together, and progress together. We hope to do great things and you had better begin looking around the corner —Events unheard of before are going to come from our direction. We ask but one boon, future freshmen, sophomores, and seniors, begin to consider us as the coming leaders in C.C.H.S.

And, presently, juniors!

A COURT TRIAL

Is a Student Worthy of a Vacation?

The trial of Jerry Student is taking place on a beautiful spring morning. Excitement is runing high as the entire student body waits expectantly. A great deal depends on the verdict which the judge will give shortly; for if he should decide that Jerry doesn't deserve a rest, all the scholars will be required to continue their work during the summer months.

Many witnesses have taken the stand, including Johnnie Faculty, and Frank Board. Johnnie thinks that some of the students are worthy of a vacation, while others need an opportunity to really work; but as a whole they really need a brief respite.

Mama and Papa dislike to see their offspring wandering aimlessly around the streets and they think that it would be wise to shorten the period. And Frank said that Jerry should have a vacation and have his fun while he was young.

Suddenly a great stillness permeates the room as the attorney sums up the case. "Jerry has been faithful in keeping up his scholastic standing, he has entered wholeheartedly into all school activities; and he has shown much spirit in backing up his school's standards in his everyday life. Jerry on the whole has been a very good citizen of C. C. H. S. and worked diligently for many months."

The judge then charged the jury and it retired for deliberation. The bailiff announced a recess and the students left for a brief interval. However, within one hour all returned and resumed their anxious watch.

Without notice the door of an adjacent room is opened and the jury files solemnly to its box. The spokesman arises, clears his throat, and after many preliminary remarks, pronounces the student worthy of a vacation.

At last the pent up feelings of the students were set free, and with one accord all began to yell:

J-U-R-Y, J-U-R-Y
That's the way you spell it—
Here's the way you yell it—
Jury! Jury! Hurrah!

The Judge pounded the gavel and at length order was restored. He spoke: "Hear ye! hear ye! I hereby sentence the entire student body to three months of rest, relaxation, and revelry.—The case is dismissed!"

SOCIAL LIFE, A BOON!

Christian High—a social institution. And what would our school be without its vast amount of social life? Though academic interests must remain predominant, students need a life-giving stream—a stream of sociability to send them on with new energies. All streams have a source, and our social stream has its source in a huge sea called club life. Yes, a huge sea, for "we are many." Christian High School has a club to fit every student whether his interests be in sports or in dramatics. It makes no difference—it's all conducive to sociability. We have many clubs and yet all the clubs belong to a still greater unit—our consolidated institution. And it must be so, for as soon as clubs become "cliques" their fruits become evil instead of good.

The predominant purpose of clubs is to foster social life and activities: to arouse a patriotic school spirit. But each club has a secondary aim, some activity which they can work for and further. It may be a religious aim, it may be dramatic, it may be athletic. And this secondary aim occupies their concern at meetings and entertainments. Social life, it might well be said, is but a fruit of getting together, talking things over, and gaining an understanding of each other. Without clubs, truly Christian High would be a mass of individuals plodding away quite aimlessly.

You never can judge a student rightly unless you've met him face to face in his club—there's where his real nature exhibits itself. Clubs are the "hogans" of the students. Club announcements pour in at chapel time thus to be read appropriately at the beginning of the day—" . . . club will meet in room 200 directly at noon." An extra plea to be present is superfluous. An announcement, that's all, and they're there. There for business, for a good chat, and a recuperation for more classes to come. The current school year terminated many large events sponsored by clubs. Numerous socials, roller skating parties, and banquets have been managed by students with much success. To thus learn to understand each other through their frequent meetings, students gradually develop socially and almost unconsciously prepare themselves for leadership in social life!

MIRROR STAFF

"Buy a tag! Buy a tag!" Such was the chorus with which the student body was greeted on one fine morning in the first part of the school year. For on that day the wide-awake Mirror Staff tried to raise funds for launching another volume of our school paper. Upon reading each new edition one would invariably conclude that this publication was certainly worth the small price of five cents. The Mirror very vividly portrayed the activities of school life.

The Mirror is coming out tomorrow.

CHOIR

"Do, re, me, fa, so, la, ti, do!" What a group of prima donna's and Caruso's! Anyone wandering through the high school corridors during the first period would inevitably hear Maestro Baar and his C. C. H. S. Warblers! The choir owes a million and one thanks to Mr. Baar, who has unstintedly given his efforts in producing a choir which, we hope, can be classified as a first rate chorus. The choir members take pride in their director; for, in case you folks don't know it, Mr. Baar was highly honored with the position of directing the Boys' Chorus of the In and About Chorus of Chicago. Thus we as a school can be justly proud of our choir and its able director.

11:15—You hastily rush past the doors of the auditorium. You suddenly stop, your interest having been aroused. What is that noise? Oh, pardon me, those are the melodic strains of the band; and you wager they are practicing for that chapel appearance. They shun public display of their talents for this year, but just wait—next semester marks the beginning of a banner year.

With the encouragement and direction of Mr. J. Baar, we expect that in the future the band will be anxious to provide regular programs at opportune times.

EUPHEMIA CLUB

"Laugh? I thought I'd never stop!" "And, say, weren't the eats delicious?" Such comments as these were heard around school for weeks after Euphemia's most successful Junior and Senior Dinner, the banquet which, we are sure, will ride on the road of fame down through school history. During the past year Euphemia has been busy presenting the essentials of etiquette to its members, sponsoring clever programs for the entertainment of C. C. H. S. students, and anxious to improve our assembly programs, the club very thoughtfully donated secular song books to the school thus placing another marker in the development of the prestige of the club. And now the shout "Thanks to Miss Cooper!"

ACACIA CLUB

"There will be an Acacia meeting in Room 100 at noon! Bring your lunch!" Every Tuesday the girls of this club are greeted with such an announcement. Eagerly they wait for the noonday bell; and as soon as it has rung, they scurry to their meeting place eagerly anticipating lunch and another chance to discuss their numerous plans for furthering social activities among the students. Talk of roller skating parties, banquets, holiday parties, and ways and means of raising money for our school fills the air, and it is with regret at the ring of the bell that they disband to resume their studies. But next Tuesday soon rolls round again and once more they gather to continue discussing an outlet for their enthusiasm and pep.

SORORES CLUB

"Get out, kids, we're having a meeting!" "Oh, excuse us, yes, we'll get out!" you hear an eager-to-know group of verdant junior and gay young seniors answer to the Sorores members. These active girls have just completed their second year of existence and have remained a source of fun, pep, and energy. And, we hear one ask, how can they help being so with Miss Cooper as their sponsor? If you inquire of the members of the club what their purpose is, they will say, "Sports," and this is most certainly true! Tobaggoning, roller skating, weenie roasts, besides progressive parties and a Mother and Daughter Banquet are on their list of activities. Never quiet! Always on the go! Not much more can be said about them—they speak for themselves!

This club, under the supervision of Mr. Swets, a youth at heart, is well on its way to success and fame. Already, after having been organized only for a short time, the boys have donated to our auditorium a beautiful and much-needed pulpit which they made themselves on their own initiative. FORENSIC CLUB

In our list of new clubs which have been organized this past year is found the Forensic Club; a club in which the members have the opportunity of participating in state competition in the fields of dramatics, oratory, and debating. The latter is a major activity of the organization. The question for debate this year is "Resolved: That the Several States Should Enact Legislation Providing a System of Complete Medical Care to All Citizens at Public Expense." The affirmative was upheld by Kathryn Mellema, Kathryn Huizenga, and Conrad Ottenhoff; the negative by Richard Feyen, Andrew Hoekstra, and Cornelius Groot.

SENEX CLUB

If you haven't attended one of those Senex roller skating parties you must consider yourself unacquainted with this club of prominent junior and senior boys. Yes, I said prominent, for certainly everyone remembers the field day sponsored by Senex—Field Day with its numerous sport events topped with a hearty meal of weenies and coffee. However, we have mentioned only a few of the activities which these up and doing Senex members have engaged themselves in; but in everything they undertake, they keep in mind their motto, "Have a true school spirit."

HOBBY HOBS CLUB

Best Wishes for the future and may God Bless a swell kid. Edith Davis

"We commence to begin"—the slogan of the freshmen girls. These enthusiastic freshies deserve much credit for their desire of originating more social activities—their attitude reflecting their versatility and capability. The purpose of this newly-organized club is to develop a hobby for the various members. Their initiative, undoubtedly, will arouse interest on the part of other students in our school to create more clubs, etc. Beginning with the able sponsorship of Mr. Vander Velde, the girls are now making rapid progress under the leadership of Mr. Hofstra and Theresa Venhuizen who, the girls hope, will contribute much to the future success of the club as its sponsor and assistant sponsor.

BON ACCORD CLUB

Not to be outdone by their fellow-classmates, a group of sophomore girls who are interested in dramatics gathered together and organized what is known as the Bon Accord Club. Holding the distinctive position of being the only club of its kind in existence at C. C. H. S., this organization offers a chance to girls interested in dramatics to develop their talent. Full of enthusiasm and real interest, these girls aim to do big things and are already working on an intensive program. Meanwhile, we'll be waiting to see you display your dramatic ability, Bon Accord, and I know we'll not be disappointed!

TORCHBEARERS CLUB

Holding a unique position among the clubs of our school, the Torchbearers Club has been organized for those interested in club activity of a religious nature. Its purpose is to present services of devotion for our chapel exercises and to provide numbers at the various missions. Every member, without exception, is given at least one opportunity to render a number and to develop individual talent. The high and worthy aim of each member is to apply his religious principles to school life so that others may be encouraged to do likewise.

C. C. H. S. GOVERNMENT

Every year brings something new—1935 ushered in a distinctive system of student government. Students often noticed that there was one link of the school chain missing, and it has now been inserted. A distinctive system it truly is, for consider how closely it resembles the national government. First, there is the Student Government League, to which house all students are eligible upon the payment of ten cents fee for the school year. Every ten weeks this open house elects five of its most able constituents to serve as the Student Council. The elections, however, alternate. The five elected serve twenty weeks and in the meantime another five drop out and are replaced. In this manner, an opportunity to serve is given to a large number of students, and yet there is never a single term at which time the entire Student Council is replaced. It always has a reserve of five members. This effective device has worked splendidly and will undoubtedly do so in the future. Such an organization needs time to attain the place it ought to occupy in school life. It should become the executive of all school clubs responsible and subject only to the faculty.

It is quite imperative that we here recognize the service of our most able faculty advisor, Mr. G. H. Mouw. His efforts on the behalf of the Student Council have been and always will be appreciated by all his co-workers in the Council.

Hope you have lots of fun on your Bus. Science vacation.

President: "The floor is open for business."

Councilor that couldn't handle a flea, least of all a dog: "I move that we appoint an official dog catcher due to the rising demand. I herewith place my application for the position."

A big "he man" councilor: "I agree but—I'm afraid the dogs wouldn't respect him. Now if you,—ahem, ahem, —appointed, well—me, for instance, ahem, it would be different."

President: "Order, order! Does anybody support these candidates?"

Wise councilor: "I move the meeting be adjourned." Which it was, and off they were—the Student Council.

HALL GUARDS

"Hall slip, please!" Anyone walking through the halls is very likely to be accosted with this request. And woe to the student who is found without this compulsory permit! Our hall guard system has been greatly improved this past year, and this improvement has evinced itself to be effective. Besides being an excellent aid to new students, it lightens the service duties of Mr. Swets and Miss Cooper—our official detectives. And in numerous other ways, this organization has changed the noisy condition of our corridors to one of peaceful serenity. The departing hall guards challenge their successors to faithful service!

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Again the A. A. has supervised the entrance of our heavyweight team into the Private School League. Again the A. A. has managed the games, the sale of tickets, and the annual alumni game. But this year they have gone even further in initiating an Intramural Sports Tournament which included various athletic activities such as volleyball, ping pong, and horse-shoe. Then, too, there have been school letters given to those girls who merited them for their basketball achievements. However, the association has been able to make such remarkable progress only through the guidance and leadership ability of our new coach, Mr. Vander Velde.

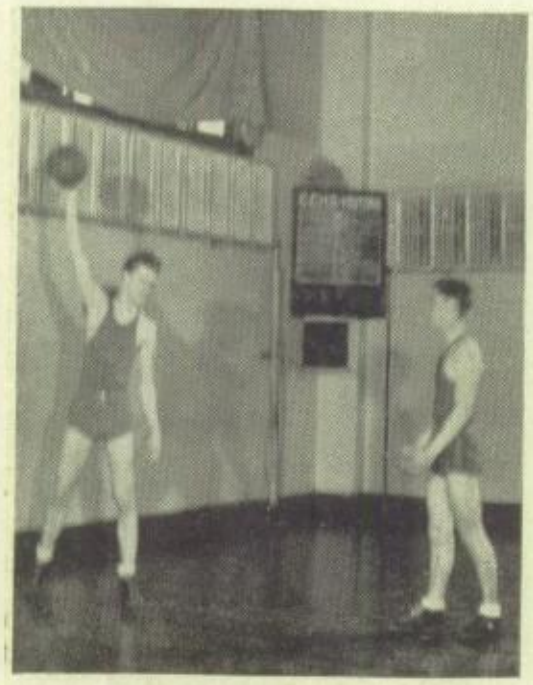
C. C. H. S. GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

Smartly dressed in their white regulation gym suits the members of the girls' team have gathered in a circular manner on the gym floor full of pep and enthusiasm. Now they are running, gradually picking up speed until they are progressing at a fast rate. Each girl is given a chance to catch the ball thrown by the coach in the center of the floor. No, this isn't a new game, but just one of those exercises which the girls go through in order to be in perfect shape for their games.

During the past year the team has enjoyed a fair measure of success; but since most of them are prospective seniors, they expect to experience even more victories next season. Mrs. Betty Vander Velde has proven to be an ideal coach expertly instructing the team every Monday afternoon.

Watch her get a basket!



Such a pass!

HEAVYWEIGHT
TEAM

Are we proud of our Heavies this year? Well, I should say we are! The team certainly made a fine showing in the Private School League this season, winning second place in the champion games. Our Heavies couldn't be beat—except by one other team. Let's give the boys a vote of thanks and our sincere admiration!

C. C. H. S. LIGHTWEIGHT TEAM

"Practice Makes Perfect" is the slogan of our Lights who have been actively engaged getting in trim for next year's regular team. With this purpose in mind they've played several games and have improved remarkably since the beginning of the basketball season. Although the team has not had any league competition, they've made a fair showing in their playing of this season and have given their opponents a "run for their money."

"JOHNNY GROWS UP"

"Johnny, what did you do with that money?"

"Aw, I can't tell you, Mom; honestly I can't."

"But you must, son!"

This trying scene was one of the high spots of the play. Allow us to show you another:

"Betty, I think you're the n-n-nicest, s-s-sweetest g-girl in all——"

"Yes, yes, Roger, go on——"

Thus you can see that if you failed to attend a rendition of this play, you certainly missed the opportunity of a life time! "Johnny Grows Up" was coached by Mrs. Glasscot and was sponsored by the Music Department of C. C. H. S. Fine performances having been given in our school auditorium, the people in and about Chicago had the privilege of witnessing the dramatic ability of our Christian High students. Backed by the opinions of everyone who saw this play, we can justly say that it was a huge success and a credit to our school!

"I ban coome right now, Mees Annie," said Hilda, the Swedish maid.

"Anne, I have the honor of asking you to become Mrs. Clarke Holmes."

"Oh, Pro—fessor! Why—why——," shyly utters Miss Prim.

"Don't touch him, he's a thief and a jail-bird!"

Oh, the excitement and comedy throughout the whole play, and the suspension in which the audience was held! Anyone who attended this dramatic rendering will undoubtedly say that the 1936 Senior Class Play was one of the finest ever presented by our seniors. And so we wish to admonish the future seniors to work hard and bring out the best of their dramatic talent!

HOSPITAL WARD
Room No. 64

Dr. Diagnosis to
Chicago Christian High School Faculty and Students:

It is with the greatest regret that I must inform you of the seriousness of the state of the class of '36. Although her ailments have been known to you for years and the symptoms of the disorder unmistakable, today I found her in a critical state of health and any hope for her recovery is quite futile.

Indeed for the past four years her head has been swelling with the vast accumulation of knowledge you have tried to prescribe for her. Now the nine parts of her head have assumed such gigantic proportions that it affords us doctors great uneasiness, fearing lest this vast storehouse of facts burst and its treasures be scattered upon such an unappreciative audience as we.

She has also succumbed to periodical dizzy spells, contracted, no doubt, from climbing upward these four years in search of wisdom. She has, in addition, a very heavy heart, which organ I couldn't very well amputate. The blood rushes to her head whenever she is asked a question in which there is the least chance that she may not know the answer. The heart, with all its throbbing pulses, is heavy with the thought of parting from her dear friends.

I have never seen such a violent case of nervousness. Why, she is greatly subject to "spells" and "fits" that approach the appearance of insanity. These "fits" cannot be accounted for other than to say that they are violent outbursts of anger at the teachers for all the homework, and for four years there has been no way of expressing this resentment without being obtrusively dismissed from the class.

Upon further examination I detected many scars which, no doubt, reflect on discipline methods which I thought discarded, but apparently are not. And then after daily falls up and down the steps it's no wonder—really, if I consider all the possibilities, she hasn't many trade marks.

There has never been a patient with more ills than this one. Imagine, she's getting smaller and smaller—shrinking under the ponderous weight of study. It's absurd to hopefully expect her return to school. No, there is no hope! The class of '36 has become too wise to linger longer.

Last week a council of specialists decided to operate on her brain. In this indigestible mass of brain material they found the cause of every symptom. There they found a jumble of mathematics, science, literature, plus about ten years of reading, writing, spelling, language, four years history, German, Latin, algebra, one year of geometry, some French and chemistry. There is no chance for relief. If we remove the brains she'd be an idiot for life and this way she can't live.

No, there's no hope for recovery—none. In fact, right now her pulse is beating at a most alarming rate, her nerves are keyed up to a high pitch, and her temperature is 184.3°C. in the shade. She's dying—her last request comes forth—her own will. She asks you to forget her failures and to come to her funeral. She's failing fast—she's dying—she's dead!

Chicago Christian High School announces the annual death of a senior class. Funeral rites to be held graduation night.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the graduating class of the Chicago Christian High School, of the City of Chicago, County of Cook, State of Illinois, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, being of sound mind and memory, do hereby make, ordain, publish, and declare this to be our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I.

We, the class, give to the freshmen a little more freedom now that they are sophomores.

We, the class, give to the sophomores the privilege of envying the juniors who shall be seniors.

We, the class, give to the juniors, or the future seniors, all the fun and work we had in our senior year.

ARTICLE II.

We, the class give to Mr. Bensema, a punctual class.

We, the class, give to Mr. Mouw, a chemistry class that doesn't break a thing.

We, the class, give to Dr. Wezeman, our thanks for helping us safely through four successful years at C. C. H. S.

We, the class, give to Mr. Swets, an American History class which is entirely present when the tests are given.

We, the class, give to Mr. Baar, a choir that he can love.

We, the class, give to Mr. Lanning, our thanks for his help to the Annual Staff.

We, the class, give to Mr. Vander Velde, someone to help mark his numerous test papers.

We, the class, give to Mrs. Lightenberg, a real artist to delight her soul.

We, the class, give to Mr. De Vries, a fine memory to remember the names and traits of all the students at school.

We, the class, give to Mr. Wezeman, an appreciative room of students.

We, the class, give to Mr. Van Beek, an English class that can sit throughout the reading of anything and not fall asleep.

We, the class, give to Mrs. Vander Velde, the best girl's team that the school ever had.

We, the class, give to Miss Cooper, someone who can rid her of the misleading name, namely, "old maid."

We, the class, give to Mr. Hofstra, a love for the "old" bus. The poor thing needs someone to love it.

We, the class, give to Mr. Radius, a sweet, loving girl friend such as Mr. Bensema has.

ARTICLE III.

I, Vincent Licatesi, give my sincerity to Calvin Ooms.

I, Louis Bos, give my popularity and masterfulness to Lambert Bere.

We, "Don and Wally," leave "palship" to another pair of friends from freshman days on.

I, Amy Lois Gustafson, give my coeditorship to next year's assistant editor.

I, Richard Feyen, give my sneezing ability to whoever can stand the strain.

We, "Dutch" Krekel, "Bucket" Meeter, "Whimpy" Huizenga, "Bags" Buikema, "Olle" Olthoff, "Fire" Feyen, and "Corky" Groot, leave the rest of the school wondering what's in a name.

I, Jarine Althuis, leave the senior class with a full treasury.

I, Nancy Eldrenkamp, leave my barrel full of giggles to Katie Dekker.

I, Gerard Koster, give my height to Wayne Huizenga.

We, the class, give all the waste paper in the school to anyone willing to pick it up.

I, Harry Krekel, give my blond hair to Bob Huizenga.

I, Lenore Radius, give my drag with the teachers to Betty Persenaire.

I, Everdean Schurman, give my good standing to Jennie Dekker.

I, John Bosch, leave my thinness to Earnest Rosain.

We, the Annual Staff, leave our "private" office to anyone smart enough to get on the staff next year.

I, Ruth Riddering, leave C. C. H. S. in an envelope of stillness.

I, Conrad Ottenhoff, give my knowledge of American history to Virginia Dekker.

I, John Olthoff, give my ability to tease to Lawrence Groot.

I, Edith Boerema, give my meekness to Andrew Hoekstra.

I, Ruth Hoving, give my bangs to Pauline Zylstra.

We, Marg and Ruth, leave our many boy friends to the mercy of those beautiful junior girls.

I, Henry Buikema, bequeath my position as third period hall guard in front of the library to any of next year's hall guards who can be as strict as I.

I, Bob McEwan, leave my dramatic ability to the junior "adonis," Jack Hoekstra.

I, Kathryn Huizenga, give my public speaking powers to Louis Stiers.

I, Gertrude Trapp, leave my good nature to Jennie Tammeling.

I, Thomas Oldenburger, give my basketball ability to Leonard Wezeman.

I, Lambert Wierenga, give my ability to play the violin without "stage fright" to Elmer Seybold.

I, Angelyn Euwema, give my ability to sprain my ankle to anyone who would guarantee to enjoy it as much as I always have.

I, Jack Vander Woude, leave my feet to some inconspicuous freshie.

I, Harrie Dahlquist, give my co-treasurership in Euphemia to Claire Ottenhoff.

I, Frances Nieubuurt, give my numerous boy friends to Marion Lubben.

I, Corky Groot, leave the one penny I borrowed to whomever I borrowed it from.

I, Aleda Vander Vaart, give my pep to Marie Wezeman.

I, Thelma Hoving, give my enthusiasm over sports to Gertrude Buikema.

I, Martha Slager, leave my position on the basketball team to Adeline Van Heyningen.

I, Winifred Van Kuiken, give my slimness to Ann Mellema.

I, Catherine Mellema, leave my rides with Mr. Van Beek to Hilda Bosch.

Signed:

Class of '36

I've looked all over for these jokes
And listened to the "older folks."
When you read them, laugh some more,
Even if you've read them before.

OH, YEAH?

Gerrit De Young: This bar of soap saved a woman's life.

Dorothy Clark: How could it?

Gerrit: Well, I can't swim, you know, and one day when I was walking along the shore, I heard a woman scream for help. I seized this bar of soap, threw it out to her, and it washed her back.

IF YOU COULD ONLY FIND THEM

Evelyn Folgers: Yes, there are many spectacles abroad that one can never forget.

Chester Toren: I wish you'd get me a pair. I always forget mine.

Silenced enjoyment.

How serious, Ruth!

Grownup freshmen pals.

Cousins — Charlotte and Kathryn once upon a time!

Now Edith Boerma; once Mama's darlin'.

Cooling off by the blower.

Imagine, our editor-in-chief way—way—back in—.

More freshies — oh, but they're advanced.

Resting the brain while cleaning the car.

The short and the long of it!

Amy likes the winter!

Tryin' to fill his head with at least something.

Don't you dare!

Look out, it's the camera girl, Ang.

Mixed up with the rest of the wood.

Cheerin' for annuals on the roof!!

Bla-Bla!

FUN OR BEAUTY?

Uncle: Connie, my boy, I'm glad to see you watch the bright glow of the setting sun.

Con Douma: That's not the sun. That's our school burning down.

VAS YOU DER, CHARLIE?

"Ernest," said Mr. Hofstra in Geography class. "tell all about the Mongolian race."

"I wasn't there," explained Earnest Rosain hastily, "I went to the basketball game."

ABOUT THE SIZE OF IT

Soph: How many subjects are you carrying?

Freshie: I'm carrying one and dragging three.

SELF-SUPPORTING CHILDREN?

Mr. H. Ooms: So your son got his B. A. and M. A.?

Mr. H. Huizenga: Yes, but his PA still supports him.

SUCH IS LIFE

Billy Griffioen: Roger left his umbrella again. I do believe he would leave his head if it were loose.

John Meekema: I dare say, you're right. I heard him say he was going to Switzerland for his lungs.

INSULTS AND COMPLIMENTS

Bennie Boersma: You advertise this as the best hotel in town?

Clerk: Why yes, of course.

Bennie Boersma: Well, that must be a good boost for the hotel, but its a terrible knock for the town.

WHAT INDEED?

Jack V. D. Woude: What would you do if you were in my shoes, Ruth?

Ruth Riddering: I'd point the toes toward the door and give them a start.

FRESHMEN TRICKS

Mr. Wezeman: Write an essay on "heroes."

Klunder (Wrote as follows): I put a tack on the chair and when my father sat down he rose.

MODEST SENIORS

Dad: Who's the smartest boy in your class, Shorty?

George Beukema: I'd like to tell you, but you said I mustn't boast.

LINGO

Freshie: What is correct, I am crazy, or I'm crazy?

Senior: Why, I am crazy, of course.

Freshie: I thought so.

TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION

I put a box on the counter under a sign which read "For the blind" and all the blind contributed.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

She: What's your name?

He: Oliver.

She: Oliver, who?

He: Anybody who lets me.

SHE THINKS

Waitress: And what will you have to follow this pie?

Theresa Venhuizen: Indigestion, I think.

MORE JOKES ON THE FRESHIE

Soph: Did you ever take Chloroform?

Fresh: No, who teaches it?

TRY, TRY AGAIN

Richard Rosendale: That match won't light.

Paul Meeter: That's funny. It lit a minute ago.

DONT'S FOR THE FRESHIES

Don't get angry when an upper classman smiles at your blunders—he is only remembering his own.

Don't believe everything you hear and see—experience is the best teacher.

Don't make enemies with all the faculty thinking that you have four years in which to get acquainted. This doesn't always succeed.

Don't talk about how hard your lessons are. Everyone else has had the same experience and knows all about it.

MONEY TALKS

Connie: Darling, I have lost my money.

Virg: How careless of you. The next thing you'll be losing is me.

WHICH ONE IS IT, PLEASE?

Vince: Madam, I ask for your daughter's hand?

Mrs. Slager: Certainly, my boy, certainly, take the one that's always in my pocket.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

Mr. Mouw: Is there anything you can do better than any one else, John?

John Olthof: Yes, I can read my own writing.

SO WHAT?

Mr. Bensema: Chuck, these problems are all wrong. What is the trouble?

Chuck Van Hof: I don't know. I worked awfully hard before I could even get the wrong answers.

A SPRING ROMANCE

Betty: Dearest, I bought a new hat today for $30 and had it sent out. It's a perfect love.

Oscar: My darling, your love will be returned.

SARCASM?

Howie B.: How long does it take you to dress in the morning, Wally?
Wally H.: Oh, about 20 minutes.
Howie B.: But it only takes me 10 minutes.
Wally H.: Well, I wash.

IS IT OR ISN'T IT?

Mr. Swets: That program is an open forum isn't it?
Vince (in history): Oh, no, sir, they aren't all for 'em, some are against him.

AS THE FRESHMAN SAYS IT:

Little Jack Horner
Sat in a corner
Eating his Christmas pie.
He put in his thumb,
Pulled out a plumb,
And said,
"What a big boy am I."

AS THE SENIOR SAYS IT:

A diminutive homo-sapiene
Reposed within a ninety-degree angle
Masticating his Noel sweet meat.
He inserted a digit,
Withdrew a Prunus,
And exclaimed,
"What an enormous infant I be."

APPRECIATION

Connie: I'm going to take Lenore to the game in Wheaton.
Jack: Are you?
Connie: Yes, and leave her there.

TIMID GIRL?

Grace Jonkman: Join the army and fight, John.
John Bosch: I don't have to join the army to fight.
Grace: Ohhh—good bye, Johnny.

Meet this lively little pair of van Beeks!

It's Aleda Vander Vaart sampling mudpies!

Bobby Mouw, there's still an element left for you to discover.

The Crown Prince and King of England in 1980! Ain't so, Mr. Swets?

Listen, everybody, it's Arthur Lanning Jr.

The "x" and the "y" of Algebra. Mr. De Vries knows the unknowns!

Behind the times.

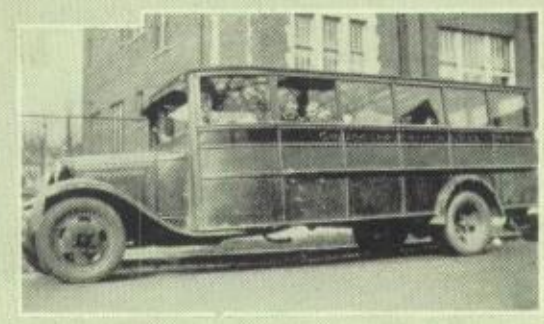
The drummer and the fiddler.

Air-minded Bud Bos!

Too tired to walk!

The new "air flow" school bus.

Comin' out for air.



Goin' home.

TRUE STORY

At a senior class meeting a gentleman was addressing the class while the engraver remained in the rear. The speaker referred to the engraver during his talk, and all of the students turned around to look at the man. The poor man became so embarrassed that he said, "Keep your eyes on the other man. He's got hair on his head." (And we hadn't even noticed his lack of it—tsk, tsk, and in this time and age!)

EXAGGERATION IN A STORY

A salesman was telling a group of seniors the advantage of invitations to graduation exercises. He said, "Why, one boy's father bought 100 invitations and sent them all over the U. S. Then," concluded the salesman, "the boy received enough shirts as gifts to last him over six years." It was a swell story.

STUDY ROOM NOTES

Betty DeBoer (violently shivering): Brr Brr.
Chink Huizenga: You're not cold, are you?
Betty: No, I'm keeping myself warm shaking so.

WHERE IS THAT?

John Bosch (playing the piano in Chapel): I will play my first number. At Sunset.

GEOGRAPHY CLASS NOTES

Teacher: What are the two Sounds in the U. S.?
Voice from the rear: The sound of the wind and the sound of the waves.

WHY ASK?

Willard Lobbes: The War of 1812, taken from Nelson's History of the U. S. Chapter 19—
Mr. Swets: It's still there, isn't it, Willard?

FAIR QUESTION

Jeanette Builthuis (going to chapel and seeing Mr. Baar mount the platform steps, and wishing to rid herself of an announcement): Are you going to be in chapel?
Mr. Baar: Sure, are you?

WHY CHAR—

If there's anyone here who ain't present don't answer "yes" when I call the roll (heard in typing room one day).

SMART JUNIORS, THESE

Fritz V. D. Schaaf: Where is the nearest restaurant?
Jessie Sluis: At the foot of these stairs you'll find the Triangle.
Fritz: Can I get a square meal there? (Why, Fritz—on a round plate?)

TIME MARKER

Mr. Radius: How long have you been married?
Mr. De Vries: Let's see, I bought this suit I'm wearing four years ago—

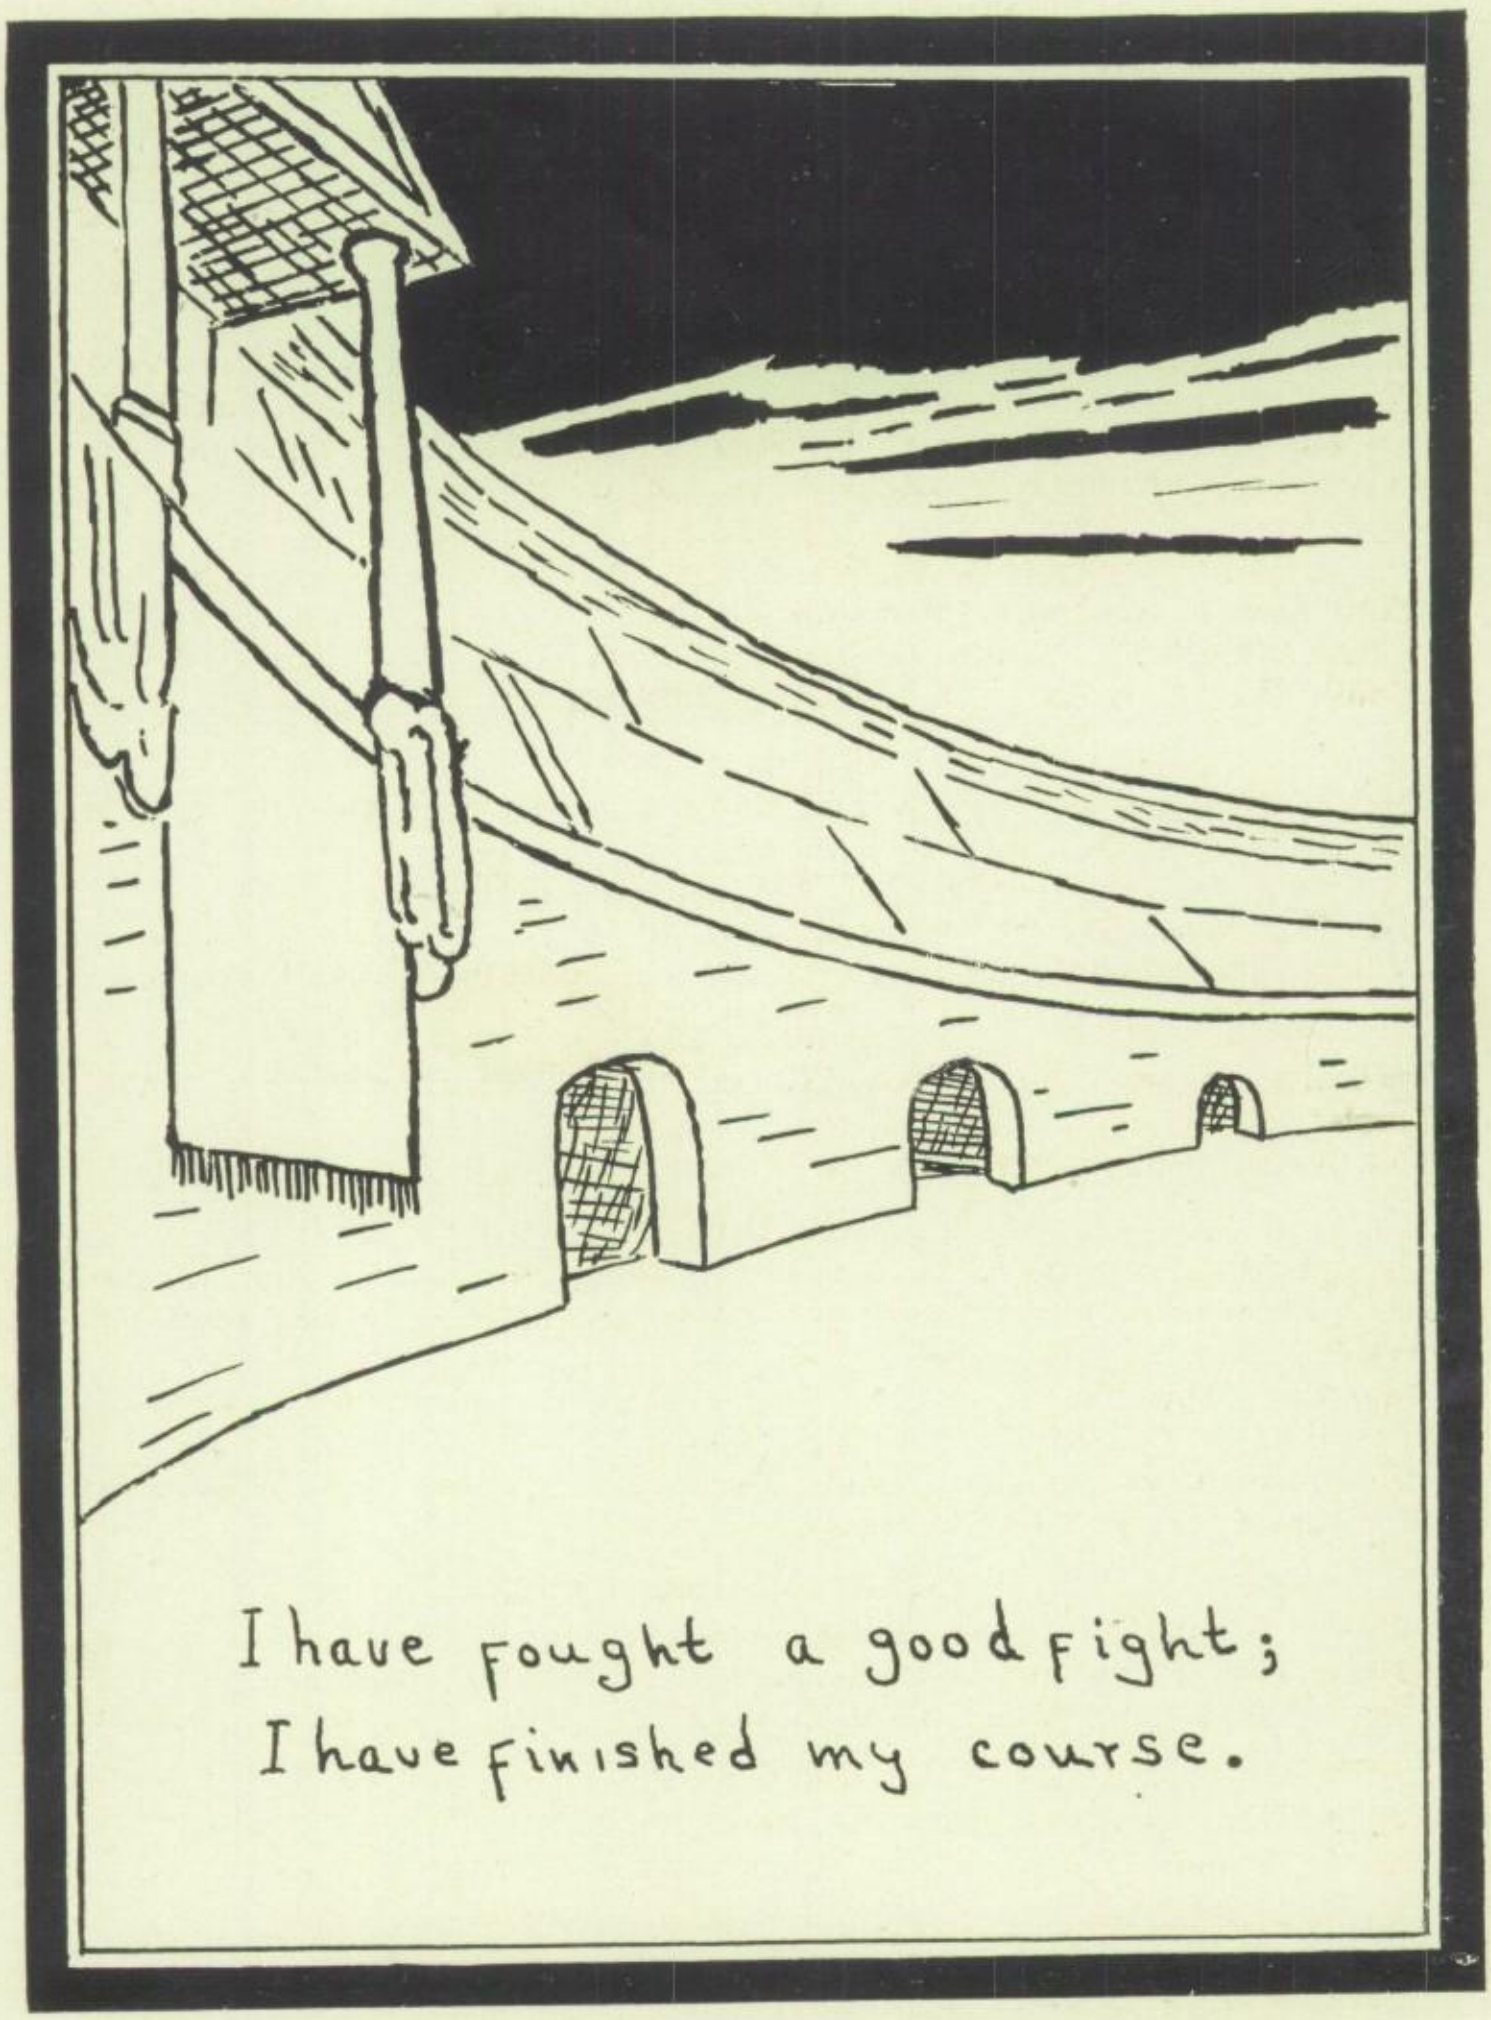
LUCK?

James West: Andrew Hoekstra is lucky that he's a little deaf.
James Boerema: How's that?
James West: He can't hear the girls say "no."

SNAPPY COMEBACK

The city visitors helped themselves to everything from fruit to nuts. Pointing to an unexplored highway they inquired of the farmer: "Shall we take this road back to the city?"

"You might as well," replied the farmer, "you've got almost everything else."



I have fought a good fight;
I have finished my course.

Glad to have
you as a classmate.
Best Wishes
David

And for Young MEN, too!

STENOTYPY makes a particular appeal to young men. It's a man's way of writing shorthand—no trying to master a system of strange hieroglyphics, or fussing with a pencil and notebook. And it is much more—one of the quickest, surest ways of getting into Business with the right Company and the big boss. There's something, young man, to think about!

MISS STENOTYPIST . . .

She's Equipped to Go Fast — and Far — Along the Airways of Modern Business!

IN STENOGRAPHY she enjoys the air-pilot's speed, precision and comfort—because she takes the quickest way from spoken word to typed record! And open to her are a score of varied opportunities: private secretarial, inter-organization reporting, special professional work, U. S. Civil Service, court and convention reporting—as well as advancement into executive duties for which she may be qualified! . . . It is no wonder intelligent, resourceful young High School graduates can prepare to go fast and far via Stenotype training? And are doing so, in growing numbers each year! . . . If you're considering this new-career idea, let us talk with you before you decide. Perhaps we can be of real help to you.

Did you ever know that the direction of the wind has a lot to do with the taste of your soup? That is another of the mysteries that Chemistry solves.

Even seniors get mixed up. Kathryn Mellema informed us that she was up to Roman Numeral E and capital I.

Freshman remarks: Does the bridge go all the way across the river?

Did you know that Washington discovered America in Byrd's ship? Neither did we. Some history student told us (freshie).

Favorite saying of some of the junior boys: "I like redheads no matter what color their hair is."

A sign in the Chem. Lab. repaired two evils at one time—that of noise and spilling. The sign read, "No spilling aloud."

You can always tell a senior, but you can't tell him much.
